Is proud to name

AL SHAMAH

Man of The Year, 2019

In grateful recognition of his continued support of Temple Sinai and the community, and his ongoing commitment to the safety and security of all.

Al Shamah started his career as a certified NYS Paramedic in 1992. He was accepted to the NYS Police 181st Class of the Basic School in May of 1999. On graduating he was assigned to Troop F, Liberty NY where he worked as a Trooper through 2008. He served as an academy instructor for the 185th and 186th academy classes and as adjunct instructor, teaching First aid to law enforcement across NY State for ten years. In 2007, Al received a Superintendent's Commendation for his response to a violent domestic incident where his actions saved the life of the stabbed victim, taking the aggressor into custody without incident.

Al was promoted to Sergeant in 2008 and assigned to Long Island where he spent a year learning the new role. In 2009 he was transferred back to Troop F and served until his promotion to Station Commander in 2012, and assigned to the Protective Service Unit, providing dignitary protection for high value government officials. In 2013 he then became the Station Commander for State Police Middletown barracks, until his commission to Lieutenant in 2017. In this role, Al was assigned to NYC where he remains currently overseeing Counter Terrorism management at the major transportation hubs including JFK and LaGuardia Airports, Grand Central Terminal and Penn Station. Outside his professional career, Al is married to Jennifer and has two children Sarah and David. Al has a passion for aviation and holds a private pilot license. In addition, Al is a founding member of Operation Endeavor, an NGO (non-governmental organization) which is responsible for providing the tools and knowledge to impoverished nations in an effort to assist them to provide emergency medical services to their populations. Al was an instructor to Temple Sinai members last year for a BCON (Bleeding Control) class, to instruct the lay person in the use of tourniquets and other devices to control bleeding in an active shooter scenario. Al has provided area religious institutions with vulnerability assessments, and served on a school committee for enhanced safety. These assessments have assisted these groups to improve their building safety and safety for the adults and children who utilize the space. His expertise gained from his professional role has helped to increase the safety and security of Temple Sinai providing information to assist with obtaining a grant for safety and security improvements.
